From a single event held in Orlando, FL in 2001 with only 97 trucks raising $17,000, the Truck Convoy has expanded dramatically over the years; raising more than $736,000 in 2008. In 2009, thousands of truck drivers, company owners, Department of Transportation officials and law enforcement officers are expected to participate in events being held in 34 U.S. states and seven Canadian provinces to raise funds and awareness for the Special Olympics.

Special Olympics is an international organization that changes lives by promoting understanding, acceptance and inclusion between people with and without intellectual disabilities. Through year-round sports training and athletic competition and related programming for more than 2.25 million children and adults with intellectual disabilities in more than 150 countries, Special Olympics has created a model community that celebrates people's diverse gifts.

Established in 1981 by Wichita, KS, Police Chief Richard LaMunyon, the Law Enforcement Torch Run is now Special Olympics' largest grass-roots fundraiser and public awareness vehicle. Twenty-eight years later, with the active support of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, more than 85,000 law enforcement officers carry the "Flame of Hope" through 50 U.S. states and 35 nations, raising awareness and an astounding $32 million for Special Olympics in 2008.

LEAD TRUCK AUCTION

In 2008, Daryl Goetz was the high bidder for the Lead Truck Position in the Truck Convoy. Because of his belief in Special Olympics, he donated his starting position to Joe Mentlick, parent of Colby Angels Special Olympics Athlete Greg Mentlick. Thank you Daryl for your continued support! (And thanks for supplying the meat for the BBQ!)

If you would like to bid on the 2009 Lead Truck Position, make sure you attend the auction 30 minutes before the start!
